Safaya Salter

Friday April 28th to Monday 1st May 2017

Retreat at Trefacwn

St Davids, Pembrokeshire, Wales, UK

Safaya offers a highly encouraging and life changing two day plus course (two full days, Saturday and Sunday, plus the Friday evening and Monday morning) in discovering your own unique potential – an invaluable tool for communication and life.

As you may know during a very special retreat held at Trefacwn with Wynter and Safaya last October the Wild Ponies imparted some very specific wisdom to Safaya. After this Safaya has felt called to offer a course based on how this information can be used through her work to help us shift conscious awareness and gain deeper personal insight, freedom and understanding allowing us to step into our true authentic selves.

When one of the students pointed out that there were ten in the group and ten ponies the messages were affectionately named 'The Ten Commandments' as they were definite directions on how we should proceed as humans at this time of massive change in the world.

Safaya's gentle humour and sensitivity will allow you easy access to learning experientially through a series of exercises including how mind, heart, body and brain interact through our emotional state and how you may expand conscious awareness in all aspects.

These life enhancing lessons in finding 'the zone', for your own best graceful performance, through your heart connection, can be used for your journey in animal and other communication whether private, professional and whenever you need to express the truth of you.

Other fascinating features will include an introduction to the art of finding information in objects and how controlling your brainwaves gives you greater thinking ability and awareness to bring to your work and home life.

By asking powerful questions and inviting possibilities to flow Safaya engages with you to open to a world of options you probably never thought possible – if you thought of them at all!

You will realise that judgements, whether about situations, yourself or others, only create limiting barriers. You will learn to dispel these and recognise the advantage of true awareness to replace judgement.

By showing you how to remove your own point of view, as seen through the unique lens of your experience, you will gain more choice and endless possibilities for expansion will develop. You'll discover your new emotional landscape where possibilities and access open up on every side.
